

Make critical project decisions,
faster, from data you can trust.

Intelligence

The heart of Project Intelligence.

Introducing elli Analytics.

An advanced analytics engine giving you a single, clear view of your project.

elli Analytics has been developed by Project Controls specialists to give clients a clearer, more accurate view of project status.

elli is a unique platform offering you the fastest way to see the current status of your project, and see the impacts of critical business decisions. In minutes not days.

elli gives you the confidence to make critical project decisions faster.

A single, clear view.

elli gives you, your team and project leadership an instant status of the project.

- Complete clarity on the status of all aspects of your project
- Aggregated visualisation lets you identify trends and risks earlier, and see impact of potential change
- All control data, from all control sources
No matter what format
All validated, all current and all in one place
Without the need to change your existing control data collection processes or software
- Simple, clear reports

elli translates your existing data into easy-to-use, easy-to-view content for fast, accurate reporting.

Analyse the impact of critical project decisions in moments.

Model options and scenarios using current state data, and see impact analysis, faster.

elli provide in-depth scenario analysis, based on comprehensive, trustable data, in minutes, rather than days.

Rapid scenario testing lets you quickly test different 'what-if' scenarios, adjusting key variables such as cost, schedule, and resources; then see potential outcomes, immediately.

elli's accurate, consolidated information gives executives and project teams the confidence to plan ahead, address risks early, and optimise outcomes.

Free up teams by reducing the reporting burden.

elli's automated data capture and dashboard generation frees up your teams to focus on crucial decisions rather than spending days on manual updates. The automation maintains the integrity of the data from all sources and reduces the risk of manual handling errors.

Make critical project decisions, faster, from data you can trust.

A clear view of your project status, from details to big picture.

Backed by Project Controls expertise.

elli has been designed and built by Project Controls specialists to respond to the needs of project, program and portfolio owners.

elli is backed by extensive hands-on project experience. Using project controls principles, and informed by the combined insights of Project Controls Subject Matter Experts, elli collects, collates and cleanses all relevant project, program and portfolio data. From all data sources. Using your current unique combination of data gathering systems.

So, the data you use is data you know you can trust.

This validated data is then aggregated into a common, easily viewed format. So, you get a single view of the real status of your project, program or portfolio. Across siloes. Across the life of the initiative.

Then, because the data is complete, comprehensive, clean and current, you can instantly and reliably model scenarios to see the impact of any changes you might make. In minutes, not days.

elli's automated data management capability can then give you answers to 'what ifs' in close to real time.

Confidence from project to program to portfolio.

Scale up or scale down.

elli Analytics gives you a clear view of status across projects, programs and entire portfolios of work.

The dynamic modelling component allows you to see how a change in resource allocation or timing in one project can impact the outputs of another, or impact the program. Or the portfolio. Giving you greater visibility of the impacts, and greater control across the portfolio.

So, you're less likely to have a small slip in one project upset the entire body of works.

Shaped to fit your needs.

- Customisable to brand guidelines
- Easy evolution to accommodate inevitable change
- Optimised around your existing business systems
- Changed inputs show changes and revised status immediately
- Accurate, up-to-date, easy-to-understand reports relevant to audience, from team to Board
- Ongoing technical support

Discover more.

If you need a clear picture of where your project is now, and a faster, more accurate picture of where it could be, ask elli

For a no obligation demonstration of just how easy elli is to use – and the difference it can make to managing your project, get in touch.

Shane Chidzey
+61 412 768 914
shane@iplanconsulting.com.au

Matthew Van Niftrik
+61 457 557 615

